Territory Teens Win Cameras

Two Territory teenagers with an eye for photography have each won themselves a new digital camera.

Alice Springs Desert Park guide manager Adam Macfie said Natalie Herrick and Peter Andrews were deserved winners of this year's "Life in the Desert" photographic competition.

Natalie won the 18-25 year old age group while Peter won the 15-17 year old age group.

"The competition was jointly organised by the Desert Park and the Gap Youth Centre where youth in the Alice Springs region were encouraged to photograph any aspect of life in the desert to celebrate Youth Week in April," Mr Macfie said.

"This is the first year the competition has been held and Natalie and Peter were both deserved winners of the Pentax Optio E-30 compact digital camera.

"Hopefully as the years go by the competition will become bigger and better with a growing number of entrants among youth in the Alice Springs region."

During the competition a selection of the most interesting entries was displayed in print form at the Alice Springs library.
